

ALESSANDRO ORTIS

Alessandro Ortis is President of the Regulatory Authority for Electricity and Gas since December 2003.

He was born in Udine on 12 August 1943. He attended the “Nunziatella” military academy in Naples, has a degree in nuclear engineering from “Politecnico di Milano” Technical University and is a graduate of “Bocconi” University’s School of Management.

He has held management positions within state-owned companies and in the private sector, at Zanussi Group, Pirelli Group, ENI Group, Ispredil – ANCE, Serono, and Tecnofarmaci.

Later on, he served as Vice President of ENEL, President of EURELECTRIC (the European Electric Industry Association), lecturer in business organisation and management, and Chairman of the International Energy Agency’s Group of Experts for the electricity sector.

More recently, he served as Director General for Energy and Mineral Resources at the Italian Ministry for Productive Activities; President of the Cassa Conguaglio Equalisation Fund for the Electricity Sector; member of the Governing Board of the International Energy Agency, of Italy’s Higher Council for Public Works, of the Technical-Scientific Commission at the Italian Department for Civil Protection, and of the Scientific Committee of SOGIN.